ISTANBUL. "Immorality in present Rumania reached unheard-of proportions" - said the young ~~Annamaria~~ mother. "The youths have sexual relations without discrimination from their earliest age and free love is preached by the communist leaders in factories, lyceums, schools, in the villages and the towns, everywhere.

I could observe the results of this immorality well indeed while I was in the MUCHAREST Maternity Hospital. From the 35 patients on my floor there were seven unmarried, young peasant girls, worker girls and school girls. Two of them didn't even know who the father of their child was, but said that it doesn't make too much difference because the State will take care of their children anyway. The two school girls in the hospital were 16-17 years of age and were returning to school after the birth."

Another woman, with a grown-up daughter, who arrived to ISTANBUL with the same transport, asserted: "In all the schools the children are told both by male and female teachers that free love is commendable and that the State will take care of illegitimate children. The parents are losing control over their children. They are staying out till late hours to attend compulsory political meetings, UTM (Youth organization) gatherings, where they are taught these things and nobody knows what they are doing afterwards. They cannot even scold them because the children would denounce their parents to the authorities for speaking against the teachings of the regime and they would be punished as anti-communist agitators."
